Flooding in Atlanta, GA Affecting Delivery September 22, 2009 Worldcolor Logistics NEWS FLASH - Issue #257

Torrential downpours have flooded the Atlanta, GA area forcing many local highways, roads and bridges to close, slowing the delivery of mail, newsstand and newspapers to the effected areas. Although the rain has diminished for the time being, there are additional storms heading toward the area threatening to worsen the current conditions, especially for the northern and northwestern suburbs of Atlanta. The National Weather Service has extended the flood watch until 8pm this evening, but further delays can be expected if the advancing storms contribute to the nearly 24 inches of rain that many areas received throughout Monday.

Over-the-Road Conditions

Major Interstate Closures:

I-20 closed in both directions between Fulton Industrial Boulevard in south Fulton County and Fairburn Road in Douglas County.

I-285 closed between South Cobb Drive and Donald Lee Hollowell Parkway.

I-575 closed in both directions at U.S. 92 in Cherokee County.

Worldcolor Logistics (WCL) will continue to monitor the situation and implement the best course of action to mitigate the effects of the Atlanta flooding. Currently, all WCL trucks are out to deliver and will continue to navigate the effected areas as efficiently as the conditions will allow. WCL will provide additional updates should further delays become likely.
